SPOTLIGHT

DR. ALBINA KHALIPOVA & DR. EDUARD TEREGULOV

On February 14, Concordia music faculty Dr. Albina Khaliapova and Dr. Eduard Teregulov organized a concert of local musicians as part of the national music series If Music Be the Food.

Founded in 2009, the series aims to raise awareness of food insecurity in local communities and encourage donations to support area pantries and food banks. Today, chapters exist across the United States and Canada.

IF MUSIC BE THE FOOD

The Concordia professors founded the local chapter in 2025. This year, 20 faculty members and students from Concordia and North Dakota State University volunteered their time and talent to create an evening of music, gather donations, and raise awareness of food insecurity in our region.

“It is exceptionally inspiring to see the connecting power of music that brings people together in order to help the less fortunate,” said Dr. Khaliapova.

All proceeds were donated to Churches United for the Homeless and the Dorothy Day Food Pantry.

Faculty and professional musicians:

Dr. Albina Khaliapova, Dr. Eduard Teregulov, Dr. Victor Luvsangenden, Dr. Douglas Harbin, Pr. Daniel Breedon, Pr. Rachel Horan, Dr. Thago Ferreira (NDSU)

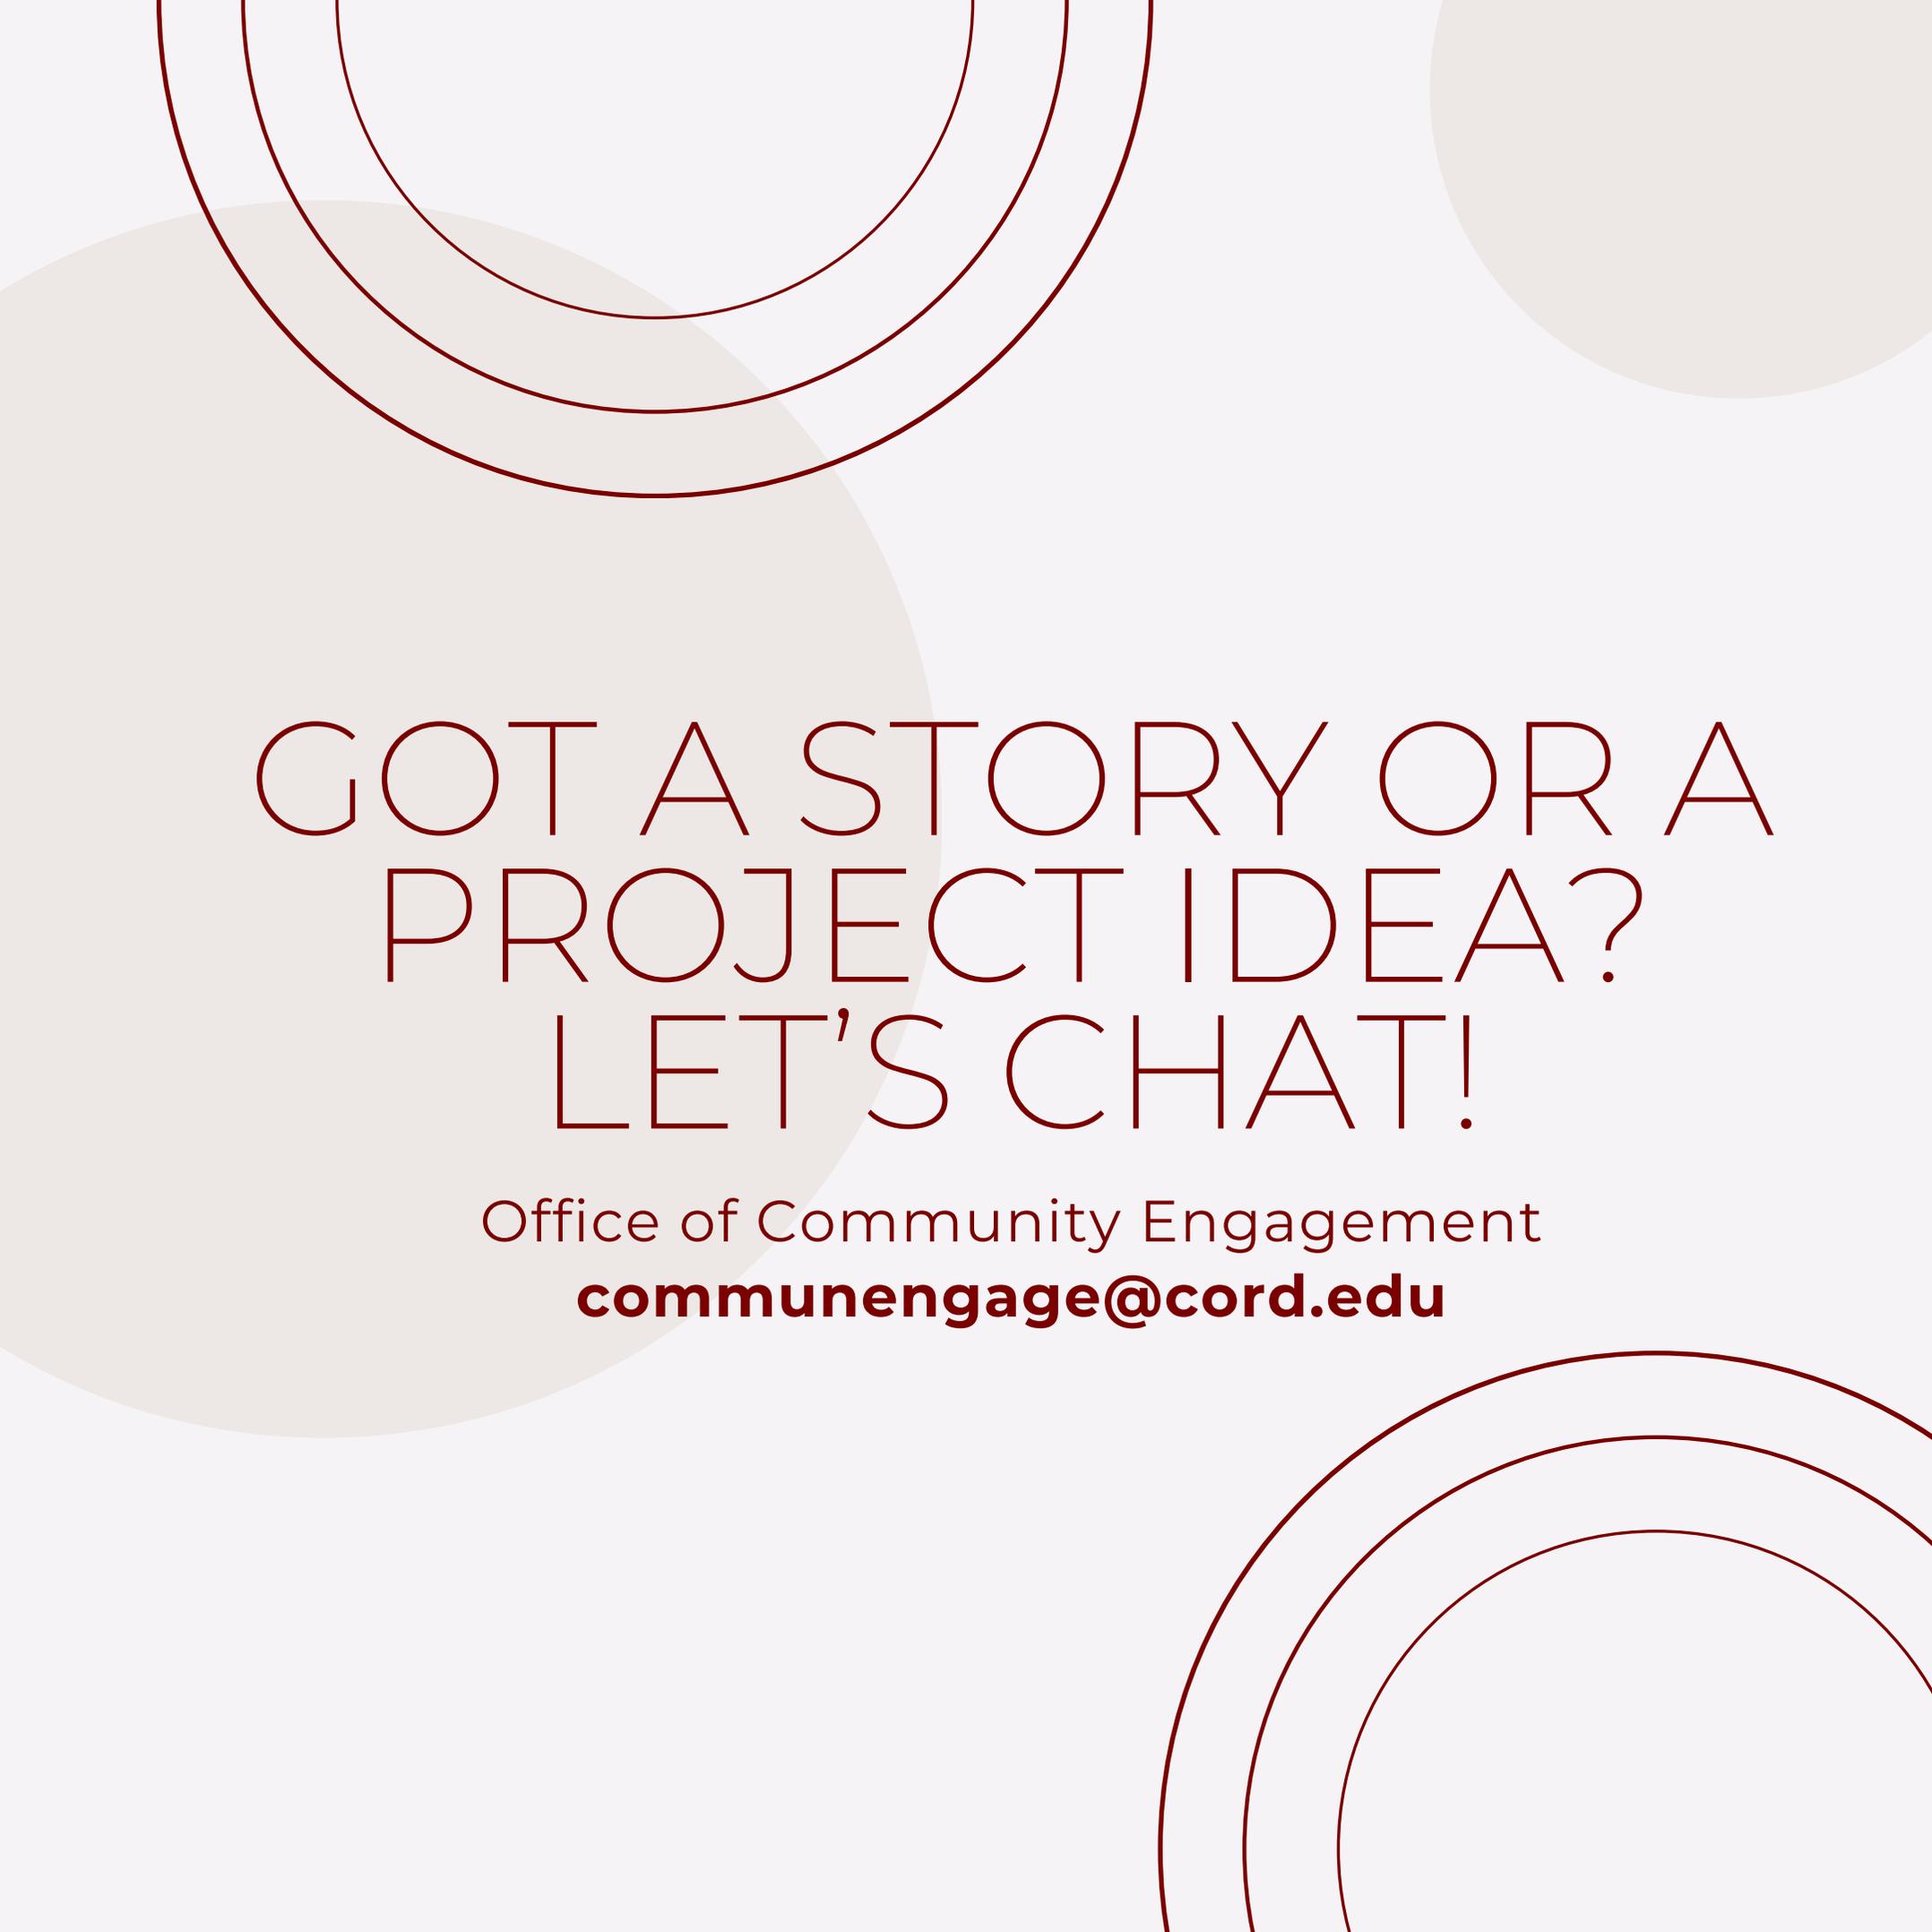

Students:

Megan Gunnerson, Levi Can Heel, Lydia Horan, Trevor Brabec, Audrey Kanu, Spencer Lathe, Nick Meagher, Auden Miland, Britta Nordin, Phia Revoir, Macy Speer, Becca Woody

DID YOU KNOW?

You can still apply for Integrative Learning Activities funding this year. These funds can be used to support activities that help students connect theory to practice and get beyond the traditional classroom in a variety of ways. Funds can be used to support transportation, materials, fees, or supplies for your integrative learning activity.
