EXPLORE MORE
ConcordiaCollege.edu/FM
In the Nature and Culture course, PEAK looks like stunning vistas and nights spent communing around a campfire under a starry sky. In this PEAK, students explore the landscape of the American West, traveling more than 5,000 miles by van while tent camping in eight national parks. Fully immersed in the subject at hand, students explore digital photography and nature writing as a particular form of publicly engaged philosophy.

Passionate about preserving history and sharing stories, Christian Belz ‘19 used his heritage and museum studies PEAK experience to create an interactive map of the Fargo-Moorhead community with archived photographs of former buildings alongside new audio clips of residents’ memories.
