Dear <<First Name>>,

It's a wonderful time to be part of music at Concordia! We are energized by the hundreds of students who choose to study and make music with us, and we are grateful to support and inspire them every day.

I'm excited to invite you to be part of "Sustain the Refrain" beginning today — our first ever giving days dedicated entirely to music! One hundred percent of your gift will fuel the areas of music you choose to support, and it will be matched up to $20,000 for music excellence thanks to two grateful Cobber parents.

GIVE TODAY >

You'll help ensure students have access to exceptional learning and performance opportunities, facilities, equipment, faculty mentors, guest artists, and scholarships that reduce financial barriers. Through your gift, you'll help students participate, develop confidence, and discover how they can use their talents to make an impact in the world. Because of you, students will grow as dynamic musicians, future educators, and creative leaders.

Thank you for considering this invitation to sustain the refrain. We hope you will join us this week with a gift — and in person or online at future concerts and performances!

Nat

P.S. Check out the video below of my colleague, Dr. Leigh Wakefield, sharing the power of music at Concordia ... and an impromptu clarinet solo at the very end!
